TRUTH VS KNOWLEDGE: Defining The Difference

This is very much less so in the case of context vowel stimuli. For instance, [aej in context shows percentages of correct recognition at and cps filtering which are lower than those for [i], [a], and [u], though [ae] is the one which has one of its formants F2 nearest to these two frequencies. The question had been raised, what other acoustic information than that of specific steady state formant frequency was used by the listeners to achieve correct recognition of filtered context stimuli .
